A MYSTERIOUS FORGER RAMPANT.

Several Attempts at Fraud on Different Firms in This City-A Well Concocted Plan to Procure Cash-Furnishing One Check and Obtaining Another-Baffled at the Bank-Statements by the Parties Connected with the Case.

During the past five or six weeks a number of the most daring attempts at forgery have been ctable firms in this city. In most cases the respectation of the control of the c sions at the HERALD office to notify the public to use precautions against certain "frauds" who, it is alleged, after making special visits to business houses and obtaining the nature and whereabouts of their banking business, forge checks accordingly, which they present to other persons as

A VERY SINGULAR PROCEEDING of this kind occurred on yesterday. About fifteen fraudulent individual, representing himself as a timekeeper in the employ of James L. Jackson, iron manufacturer, on Twenty-eighth street, near Second avenue, called at the business house of Floomer & Co., 243 Front street. He has been described as a heavily built man, apparently about five feet ten inches high and thirty-eight years of age, with smooth face, florid complexion, gentlemanly in address and wearing dark clothes. He asked Mr. Bloomer if he chartered boats. The latter answered in the affirmative. He then said he was one of a committee appointed to procure boats for a picnic excursion which the Messrs. Jackson in-one of a committee appointed to procure boats for a picnic excursion which the Messra. Jackson intended giving to the men in their employ, and demanded the terms for the use of a boat. A price was agreed on. Herenpon he stated that Mr. Jackson had made him a present of A Four Hundred Dollar Check, which was left at his disposal for this purpose. Mr. Bloomer took the $400 check, which was drawn on the Bank of the Metropolis, Union square, and signed James L. Jackson & Brother, giving his parron a check in return on the Market National Bank for $135, the balance in his favor. This check Mr. Bloomer dated one day ahead, as a precautionary measure, and by so doing baffled a gross attempt at defrauding him of the sum. The forger took Mr. Bloomer's check to the bank and asked to have it cashed. But the paying teller, noticing the date of the check, refused to pay it, referring him back to Messrs, Bloomer & Co, to have the date altered, as he thought that it was dated a day ahead by mistake. The forger returned to Mr. Bloomer's collect and asked to have the date corrected, Mr. Bloomer told him it was done as a matter of necessary precaution and refused to comply. He then endeavored to get Mr. Bloomer to identify him. Mr. Bloomer relused, adding that if his check proved good it would be duly honored.

then left, saying he would return the following day. Meanwhile Mr. Henry Farmer, a clerk in Mr. Bloomer's employ, took the forged check to the telier of the Bank of the Metropolis, in Union square. The cashier of this bank declared the check worthless and a forgery. He also added that during the past few weeks he was fortunate enough to notice others of a similar kind and with a different alguature on each, but the handwriting in every case bearing a strong resemblance to that on the check presented. Of those checks which he had alluded to the signature of Tifany & Co. Was forged on one and that of Coe & Co. on another. He remembered noticing counterfeit checks but he could not remember the signatures i another. He remembered noticing counterfeit checks but he could not remember the signatures inscribed upon them.

The reporter afterwards called upon Mr. Jackson, at his office in Twenty-eighth street, to learn if he had any knowledge of the lact or any suspicions as to whom the fraudulent attempt could be attributed. After stating the particulars to Mr. P. H. Jackson, one of the brokers who compose the firm, he carefully examined the forged check which the writer handed him.

A FORMER ATTEMPT.

"This is a very strange occurrence indeed," he said, "but not an unusual one. About four or five weeks ago a forged check in our name came under our notice. It was, as far as I can remember, a $2.00 check. I cannot remember who the parties were who presented it, but the handwriting of the signature resembled this very much (holding the counterfeit check in his hand). This," he continued, "I pronounce a torgery. There was a similarity in the writing approaching to that of his brother's, but the imitation could not be called a good one." Here he pointed out the differences. He signed a number of the checks himself, but not as the counterfeit one was signed. He always abbreviated the word "James" and "Brother" "Jas." and "Brother" "Jas." and "Brother". "Jas." and "Brother" he con tinued, "we do no business with the Bank of the Merropolis. Our dealings are with the Oriental Bank only." In answer to a question by the Heral.D reporter whether he could have any suspection.

reporter whether he could have any SUSPICION of the party who forged the check, he said he could form none whatever. There were no persons in his employ to answer the description given of this mysterious forger. Besides the writing was so much at variance with his—and he signed about three-fourths of the bank receipts and checks—that there was no such thing as doubting the honor and honesty of his employés.

that there was no such thing as doubting the honor and honesty of his employes.

That the lorgery was attempted by an old and experienced hand cannot be doubted from the facts given above. Moreover, the mysterious counterfeiter gave Mr. Bloomer the number of his residence to be 296 East Sixteenth street, which, on ordinary calculation, would place him in the fountain of Gramercy Park—which is presided over by a mischievous nymph, no doubt, but is not suitable for mortal habitation. It may be added that the detectives are on the track of this mysterious fellow and his associates and called on Mr. Bloomer yesterday for the particulars.

OBITUARY.

Prince Alexander John Couza.

A telegram from the Danubian Principalities, dated in Bucharest vesterday, informs us of the the united provinces of Moidavia and Wallachia, who was elected in 1859 and compelled to abdicate in 1866. His seat of authority is now filled by Prince Charles of Roumania, of the imperial German family of Hohenzollern. The death of Prince Couza will no doubt attract renewed attention to the question of the East. His late Highness, Colonel Alexander Couza, when elected Hos podar of Moldavis, was between thirty-eight and forty years of age. He had been successively and on several occasions Prefect of Galatz and President of the Tribunal there. In the early part of his administration Prince Vogorides appointed him his aide-de-camp, but it was not long before Alexander Couza resigned the office, protested against the acts of the Kaimacan, and gradually assumed the chief power. In the month of February, 1866, the Prince was revolutionized at home. He took up his carpetbag and went to Paris. Everything went off very quickly, and never was a revolution less noisy than the one in the Danubian Principalities. On the morning of the eventual day, 23d of February. Prince Couza was having his snooze as usual, when he was informed that a few officers of the army wished to say a few words to him. He begged them to walk in, and after the deputation had informed itself of his health, it informed him that the country was tired of his rule, and that he On several occasions Prefect of Galatz and Presiwhen he was informed that a few officers of the army wished to say a few words to him. He begged them to walk in, and after the deputation had informed itself of his health, it informed him that the country was tired of his rule, and that he must please abdicate. Prince Couza was not remarkable for bravery. Fearing he might come to grief he signed his abdication, and after having spent a few hours in durance vile, left Moldo-Wallachia to return no more. The Senate and the Legislatif Assembly ratified the Prince's abdication. The oddest part of the whole business was that both these bodies had been named by the Prince himself. Prince Couza was, at the moment, very rich. During a couple of years be had been making money by monopolizing the sale of tobacco, sait and everything else he could lay his hands on. The ruler of the Moldo-Wallachia had become a pericet "globber." and had agents and brokers in Paris who carried on business with this royal specuator. His abdication gave occasion for the formation of a provisional government, composed of General Galesco, one of the foremost of the liberals of 1848; of M. Losear Catarding, who was President of the Chamber at the time of the coup "etal made by Couza in 1864, and finally of Colonel Hacalambl, commander of the artillery. Not a drop of blood was split during the whole revolution. In order to prevent every kind of intervention the Senate and the Assembly of the Principality hastened to proclaim the Count De Fiandre, second sen of the late King of the Beigian Prince declined the honor. The Roumanian revolution was accomplished on the 23d of February, 1866, the day before Count Bismarck entered the Trussian Chambers in Berlin and informed the Deputies that Parliament was closed by order of the King.

By a cable despatch from London to Ottawa and thence by telegram to New York we are informed that Sir George E. Cartier, Bart., late Minister of the Mintia and Defence of the Dominion of Canada, died in England at two o'clock yesterday morning. George Etienne Cartier, one of the ablest states men of the Dominion of Canada, was born in the year 1814, and was consequently fity-nine years of age at the time of his death. He was the youngest son of the late Lieutenant Scionel Jacques Cartier, of the Canadian minitia, by his wife Marguerite, daughter of Joseph Taradise. Sir George Cartier married, in 1846, Itorkanse daughter of Edouard Raymona Febre, of Montreal. He studied law and was called to the Bar in Lower Canada in the year 1835, was made Queen's Connsel in 1854 and an honorary member of the Bar in Upper Canada in 1866. He served as a member of the local House of Commons, was Premier of the Canadian government from 1858 to 1862, and was appointed a Privy Councillor for Canada and Minister of Militia and Defence in 1867. He had previously served as Attorney General and as a member of the Legislative Assembly.

The above named gentleman died at his house in Zanesville, Ohio, on Sunday last, aged seventyeight years. He was a native of Upper Freehold, eight years. He was a hative of Upper Freehold, Monmouth county, N. J.; son of General James Cox, a revolutionary officer, many years Speaker of the Lower House of New Jersey, and who died in 1808, while a member of Congress from that State-The deceased was early apprenticed as a printer in the True American, at Trenton, and when a young man owned a part of that old journal; he was also State Printer. In 1818 he went to Ohio, carrying on pack horses an old Ramage press and other materials for a paper. He established and edited the Muskingum Messenger, one of the first papers in Eastern Ohio. He also served as Clerk of the Courts for fourteen years. He erected the first paper mill west of the Alleghanies; was Senator in the Legislature of Opio in 1831-2, a devoted friend of Jeffersonian and Jacksonian democracy. He was the last survivor of that Legislature, as he was when he died the oldest and earliest of the living editors of Ohio. For many years he resided at Washington, but during the last few years he had been living at his old home. He was man of gentleness, almost feminine mildness of manner; an accurate writer, pannstaking and technical; a printer who never was equalled at the case, a firm and undeviating friend and Christian. He leaves a large family and widow, many of whom were around him in death. His son, S. S. Cox, arrived from New York a few hours too late to see him in life. He died of gradual paralysis, and sank quietly and painlessly into a sleep from which he never consciously waked.

Joseph F. Fahens.

From Samana, St. Domingo, under date of May 9, we have intelligence of the death at that place of Joseph F. Fahens, acting United States Consul. He died during the night previous to the day of writing from the effects of an attack of bilious intermittent fever. Mr. Fanens was very popular with the natives and amongst his countrymen.

Blue Mass, and other preparations of Mercury, actually produce more suffering and death than the diseases which they profess to cure. And yet this corrosive, mineral, so denounced by the allopathic doctors, if prescribed by them almost universally in Liver complaints, Consumption of the Lungs, &c.

are composed entirely of roots and herbs, obtained from the great storehouse of Nature, and their salutary effects will appear as soon as the medicine is brought to the test of a fair experiment. SCHENCK'S MANDRAKE PILLS do not produce any nauses or sickness of the stomach; but when given for Dyspepsia it may be groper to use, them in connection with SCHENCK'S MANDRAKE PILLS. By this judicious treatment the digestive faculties are speedily restored to their full vigor, and the worst cases of indigestion may be cured.

When we reflect that the liver is the largest internal orran of the body, that to it is assigned the important duty of filtering the blood and is preparing the bile, that it is subject to many disorders and that when it is diseased or inactive the whole body suffers aympathetically, it is not surprising that a medicine which can restore these healthy operations or the liver should produce wonderful continuace, several health and effect curse which is the little of the line of the liver, are speedily removed by the use of Selsman's symptoms, indicative of imperior of disordered action, of the liver, are speedily removed by the use of Selsman's and wronteness piles, bitter or sour errotations and that indescribable feeling of oppression, mental anxiety, languor, letharry and described.
